1.0 Introduction

1.1 Purpose and Scope

The District of Columbia (“the District”) Government implements the District Heat Emergency Plan when a Heat Emergency occurs and the National Weather Service (NWS) issues an “extreme heat warning” for the District. The Heat Emergency Plan provides information on the District operations to aid all residents, particularly vulnerable populations with health issues, the homeless, and visitors to the city.

1.2 Illegal Use of Fire Hydrants

The Executive Office of the Mayor strictly prohibits the activation or opening of fire hydrants anywhere in the District for the purpose of street showering without prior consent from the Mayor, City Administrator, or Deputy Mayor for Public Safety and Justice. Unauthorized use of a fire hydrant can hamper firefighting capabilities and tampering with a fire hydrant can cause personal injury, damage to the hydrant or hydrant nozzle, and damage to the underground pipe lines in the water distribution system.

2.0 Cooling Centers

Cooling centers are locations across the city where individuals can go to gain respite from the heat. In addition to providing a cool place to rest, cooling centers may provide additional services to individuals experiencing homelessness but are not required to do so. While some cooling centers will open specifically when a Heat Emergency is activated, many of the District’s cooling centers will only be available during their regular business hours (see section 5.2). When using a cooling center, individuals must obey all rules and regulations as permitted by each site.

The following key applies to the list of facilities within this document:

| Facilities Off-line/Not Available |
| Temporary/Surge Facilities – Available for Use |

3.0 Activation

When the National Weather Service (NWS) issues an “extreme heat warning” for the District, the Homeland Security and Emergency Management Agency (HSEMA)’s Joint All-Hazards Operations Center (JAHOC) coordinates with the Department of Human Services (DHS) to activate a Heat Emergency.

4.0 Communication

4.1 General Information

The Department of Human Services (DHS), the Homeland Security and Emergency Management Agency (HSEMA), and the Interagency Council on Homelessness (ICH) coordinated to provide Heat Emergency guidance in this document as well as provided on the District's webpage at www.dc.gov or heat.dc.gov. Following notification of a Heat Emergency, HSEMA, DHS, the Mayor's Office on Communication (EOM Comms), ICH, and other partner stakeholders disseminate information through alerts, social media, and other communication outlets.

4.2 Alert and Notification

Upon activation of a Heat Emergency, the HSEMA JAHOC issues an alert via AlertDC. Outreach and service providers across the city are instructed to sign up for citywide Heat Emergencies, so that providers can spread information to District visitors and individuals experiencing homelessness. All individuals interested in receiving Heat Emergency notices via text or email can sign up for District alerts at <https://hsema.dc.gov/page/alertdc>.

When a Heat Emergency is activated, the United Planning Organization (UPO) command center will notify shelters staff of the Alert, so they can prepare the shelters for consumers.

During FY2016 winter, the ICH began piloting a new, free HopeOneSource text messaging application that allows District agencies and service providers to blast text messages to registered users. HopeOneSource, through partnering providers, can also help individuals experiencing homelessness register for a free phone with free, unlimited text messages. Through the HopeOneSource app, District partners send out updates to alert consumers to weather conditions, shelter availability, new programs and services, and how to access help they may need. To sign up for HopeOneSource text messages or to learn more, visit <https://www.hopeonesource.org/dc>. District agencies are currently working to integrate HopeOneSource alerting with AlertDC messaging coming from the JAHOC to reach the widest number of individuals in the District.

5.0 Guidance for Individuals Experiencing Homelessness

Individuals experiencing homelessness face additional barriers and unique needs during the extreme heat. As a result, providers within the Continuum of Care will coordinate to provide cooling centers and other services for District residents experiencing homelessness during Heat Emergencies.

These resources are provided within the context of the broader systems work which is underway in the District to move from a shelter-based system to one focused on rapid stabilization and connection back to permanent housing. However, the strategies outlined in Homeward DC (single adults and families) and Solid Foundations DC (unaccompanied youth) will take time to implement, and as such, the District is committed to ensuring we have effective strategies in place to protect residents experiencing homelessness from the heat. For more information on the broader systems change happening in the District, visit the ICH website at <http://ich.dc.gov/>.

While many of the services included in the Heat Emergency Plan are in place and operational regardless of temperature, some additional services, including Emergency Shelters, will open when a Heat Emergency is activated by the District government.

Individuals experiencing homelessness and homeless service providers should be aware that some facilities, including DC Public Libraries (DCPL), may have bag limits. DCPL, for example, has a two-bag limit and individuals should plan accordingly. If individuals need help navigating these policies, they are encouraged to talk to an outreach provider or shelter case manager for assistance.

5.3 Transportation

During Heat Emergencies the general UPO transportation schedules are used. Outside of the set transportation hours, the Shelter Hotline at (202) 399-7093 or 311 can be called for on demand transportation to shelters, or if open, to the Downtown Day Service Center and Adams Place Day Center.

Note the following limitations when reviewing the transportation schedules:

- All listed times are estimates, subject to change due to traffic conditions and weather challenges. Safety is the primary concern;
- Accessible transportation for persons with disabilities is provided upon request;
- Unscheduled (on-demand) transportation outside of the schedule is limited, and subject to traffic conditions and weather challenges; and
- Destinations for morning transportation are subject to change based on availability of the site and/or actual numbers of persons seeking to go to a specific destination.

5.4 Scheduled Transportation from Women’s Shelter: Morning Schedule

In the morning, transportation for women will be provided from various shelter locations to daytime service locations. Details are included in Table 3 below.

5.8 Outreach

The District government contracts with a number of agencies to provide homeless outreach services throughout all four seasons. The ICH facilitates a work group comprised of these District-funded outreach providers, privately funded outreach teams, and the outreach specialists at DHS and DBH to ensure that community resources are strategically deployed and effectively coordinated.

The outreach agencies provide a vital function in our homeless services system, working to engage vulnerable individuals and to connect them to shelter and housing resources. Through this engagement process, the teams provide an array of services, including routine safety checks and the provision of essential survival items (e.g., food, water, and clothing) for clients. Outreach teams across the city will continue their outreach schedules and will check in on individuals’ health and safety in the extreme heat.

6.0 General Cooling Facilities
